

MOVING TO KANSAS CITY FOR A JOB?

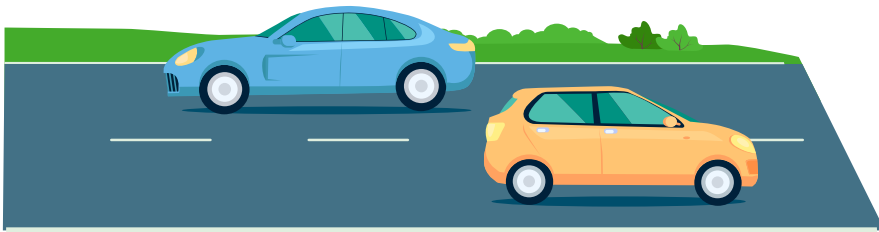

Here's what you Need to know

If you're moving to Kansas City for a job, good news! The City of Fountains has plenty of perks—great neighborhoods, happy people, vibrant culture, and a small-town comfort that pairs well with big-city vibes.

Perks of Being in KC

Not only does it boast a low cost of living, but the daily commute averages at just 22 minutes for residents of the KC metro area. Five key players represent KC's job landscape: bioscience, tech, finances, distribution and food and beverage, with additional industries diversifying the market.

The People Are Happy

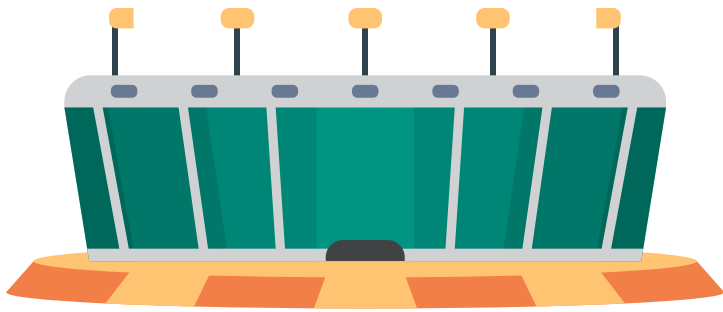

KC folks have each other's backs – that's just what neighbors do. Residents embrace community by celebrating each other through love and acceptance. Although the city encompasses two states, citizens embrace one proud Kansas City through sports, events, and community organizations.

Neighborhood Notes

A diverse range of neighborhoods allow for many living options. The Country Club Plaza is known for its Spanish-inspired architecture and high-end shopping and dining, while the Power & Light District maintains the pulse of KC nightlife. There's culture, too, thanks to many local attractions like museums, farmers markets, and fine arts institutions like the Kansas City Ballet.

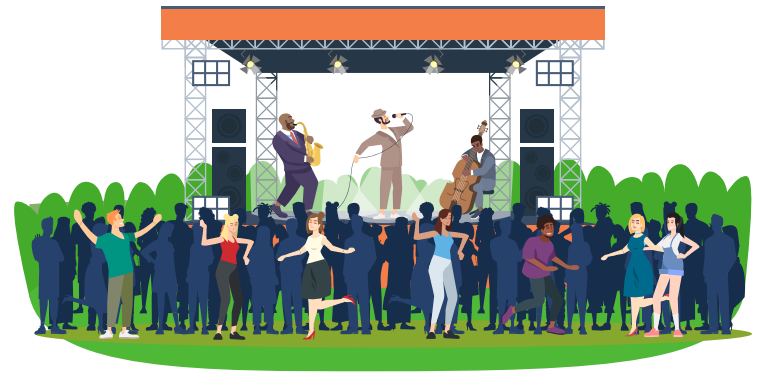

Growth Mentality

With an expanding airport, vibrant sports scene and cutting-edge initiatives (like the world's first soccer stadium built for professional women's sports via the revered Kansas City Current), the city is on the rise.

The Chiefs and Royals continue to make waves and the bustling downtown area is thriving from commercial development and hum of streetcar route expansion.

Electrifying Entertainment Scene

There's something for everyone in Kansas City's food scene. The city is known for its jazz and blues heritage and also for being one of the world's top BBQ spots. With more than 100 BBQ joints to choose from, it's a smoked meat and sauce lover's paradise.

Leverage Your Move with Help From a Recruiter

It's no secret that moving to a new city can be a stressful time. But with a local recruiter on your side, you gain major advantages. They know the ins and outs of Kansas City – what to do and where to go. With the benefits of a large company like Morgan Hunter and the personal touch of one of our local recruiters, you'll have the best of both worlds. It's a relocation dream come true!
